

Affordable, focussed and fun Outdoor CLPL with Aline Hill and Kate Walters (<https://magenpie.co.uk/index.html>). Both have 20-plus years' experience of working in the wild with learners of all ages and supporting learning professionals to build their skills and ideas for delivering creative, inspiring outdoor woodland learning.

“Outdoor motivation for meta skills”

Available in whole-day, half-day and twilight formats (2 hours). Contact admin.office@forestschoolscotland.co.uk to book a whole staff CLPL or enquire.

Through direct experience, reflection and collegiate discussion, explore how natural environments support our bodies and minds to succeed in meta-skills, and how our natural drives towards certain outdoor activities can provide rocket fuel for building self management, innovation and social intelligence skills.

We'll look at:

focussing, adapting and initiative through foraging, sorting and tracking;
sense-making, collaboration and feeling through story making;
and curiosity and creativity through natural art and real-world problem solving.

A wonderful workshop which provides lots of off the peg ideas to use with learners, and a whole system to help you and your learners design their own.
